Glenrothes Chess Club. - Although Glenrothes Junior Chess Club is not running over the summer, juniors are welcome to attend the adult club for quickplay matches. The growing strength of the club's juniors was in evidence at last Monday's round of summer quickplays. Young Kiron Roy, only eight-years-old, put in an impressive performance to outplay Stuart Blyth in a Scotch Opening; not only did Kiron demonstrate at least as much theoretical knowledge as his more experienced opponent, but went on to display far sharper tactical ability in the resulting middle-game position. Brother, Sarat, also played well to hold Bruce Geddes to a draw; particularly impressive was Sarat's performance in a tight and complicated endgame.
